Hello,

The people of Bristol have been amazing since reopening and this Christmas season in their determination and efforts to shop locally. This has been a great benefit to our community and invaluable in supporting Bristol businesses during this difficult time.

I feel that I must give back to the community that has so wonderfully supported me since I opened my shop in 2011 and I think the Bristol Planning Commission would be an ideal way to accomplish that.

In the past few years I've been researching and studying various community planning efforts around the country, including those incorporating green energy and technology and ecological use of land practices. I would very much like to be included on the Commission and be involved in planning future housing, building, and land use projects in Bristol.

Thank you for your consideration.

Melissa
